5. Chief of the central planning office is Schreiber, assisted by Schlott and Reinhardt. Schreiber, about sixty years of age, is the brother-in-law of August Kothaus, Hauptdirektor of the Carl Zeiss firm until his death in 1943. Schreiber and Reinhardt worked together as leading employees of the Zeiss affiliate in Venlo, Holland, until 1944.
6. Heads of the experimental and testing laboratory of VVB Optik and Zeiss Jena are Dr. Ing. Dobenoecker and Dipl. Ing. Illichmann.
7. The two Zeiss employees who work directly under Soviet supervision as acceptance (Abnahme) engineers are Stark and Heinz Schmidt. These men are responsible for inspecting all goods ordered by the Soviets. Schmidt has recently been spending a great deal of time at Neustadt/Orla where he is engaged in testing fine wire mesh with instruments produced by Zeiss Jena.
8. Two employees who work closely with Geheimrat Harting are Brunner and Makasi. Brunner is Harting's private secretary. Makasi is Harting's chief administrative officer.
9. Dr. Jobst is the personnel chief of VVB Optik and of Zeiss Jena. Jobst was a member of the SPD until 1933 and was never a member of the Nazi party. Until 1933 he was chief receptionist in the Kaufhaus Behrend in Jena; from 1933 to end of World War II, he worked as a legal adviser.
10. Dr. Reeb, Zeiss Jena specialist in optical lighting techniques, left Jena in mid-December 1950. He is reportedly employed at the Technische Hochschule in Darmstadt.
11. Ing. Erich Tonndorf, chief engineer for bodies and housings of the A-1 aeronautic training device, disappeared on 17 September 1950. Tonndorf is reportedly employed in West Germany, possibly in the Zeiss firm in Oberkochen, Württemberg.

 Comment: The two Burckhardts in the development division are not identical.

 Comment: Production is still officially headed by Schrade, but it is rumored that Rudolf Müller, at present head of Photographic Instruments, will assume this post.

25X1

 Comment: Ernst Fischer died on 5 January 1951. He is being temporarily replaced by his two former assistants, Rommel and Schmidt.

25X1

 Comment: Reinhardt, according to current rumor in the Zeiss firm, is to visit China in the near future to negotiate an order with the Peiping Government.
